A tag icon is shown next to the link when we recognize the domain as capable of link tags (through admin settings). Instead of the [+] sign that is shown currently, this tag icon is shown after the link. Clicking on the icon will bring up the "Edit Link Tags" dialog. This way, Edit Link Tags dialog is only one click away rather than having to bring up the dropdown. Also, for new users, the tag icon should be easier to understand.

- 1 Compose window with a photo attached. Photo shows inline at the end of the post.

we'll need some resizing rules specified.
i'm assuming they'll be the same as content center, with a different width/height
By Brian Carr

Exactly. Same rules as content center. By Jaladhi Pujara

- 2 is hashtag tokenizing something we're doing in this summer scope? By Brian Carr

I think this could cause confusion because it looks so much like the link (but we couldn't have a dropdown). @Jaladhi, could we remove this for now? I could imagine having the ability to pull down an inline search stream in the future - some cool futures. But for now, I think we should just treat as text. By Devin Kani

Sounds good. By Jaladhi Pujara

Hashtag removed By Jaladhi Pujara

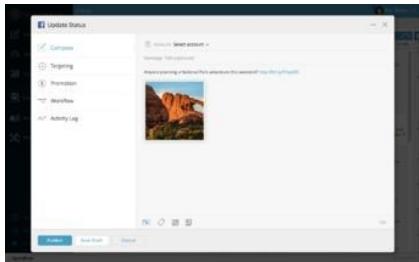

- 3 this is still out of scope, right? By Brian Carr

Yes. By Devin Kani

- 4 What does this dropdown do? By Noah Sloan

This changes the social media channel. We are updating the design to remove the chevron, I will be finishing up the final design this week. By Amy Hitt

Comments for 01a_Pubs_jp_20140422

Noah Sloan: General question: Where do validation messages go?

- 1 Account selection from a dropdown menu. Includes search.

"Select All" or "Clear" should be grayed out if all accounts are selected or if none is selected respectively.

"Clear Default" option is shown if the default accounts are already populated in the dropdown.

- 2 Need new icon for needs approval (for the voice). By Devin Kani

Approval icon added By Jaladhi Pujara

- 3 Can we clear a default account? By Devin Kani

Clear Default option added By Jaladhi Pujara

I can't see it under the annotation... By Noah Sloan

- 4 This is going to be expensive. By Noah Sloan

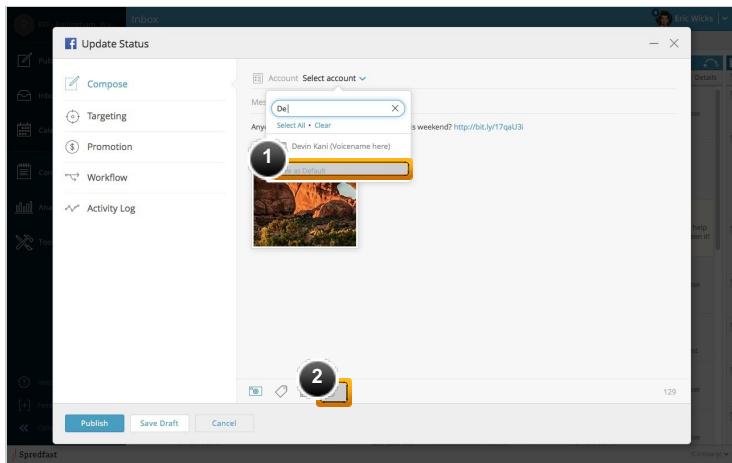

Which part is expensive? I was thinking of showing the remaining accounts in a tooltip. By Jaladhi Pujara

Figuring out which accounts are not visible. Anything that we cannot know without rendering (is the text truncated, how many lines it takes, etc.) is going to be complicated and therefore expensive. By Noah Sloan

- 5 What about retweets? By Noah Sloan

Coming separately. By Jaladhi Pujara

Retweets are for Twitter. :) It will be a tab on the left. By Devin Kani

- 1 Search results. List of accounts is shortened as search term is entered.

We were thinking of adding the voice in the search so that users will understand approvals as they search. By Devin Kani

Yea, it wont make much sense without it (e.g., if the account is in two voices, there would be two identical results) By Noah Sloan

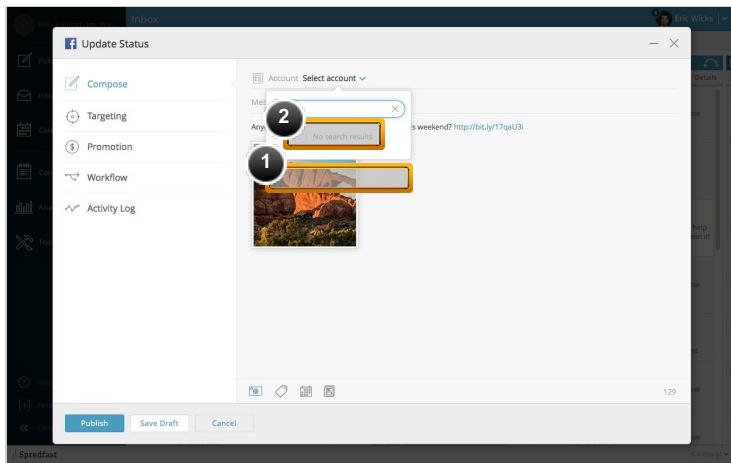

Voice is included in the results By Jaladhi Pujara

So the voice appears in parenthesis next to the account name when the user starts typing in the box? By Noah Sloan

- 2 Is this also notes? Do we need it both here and in Workflow? By Noah Sloan

That is actually content center. We need to update the icon. By Jaladhi Pujara

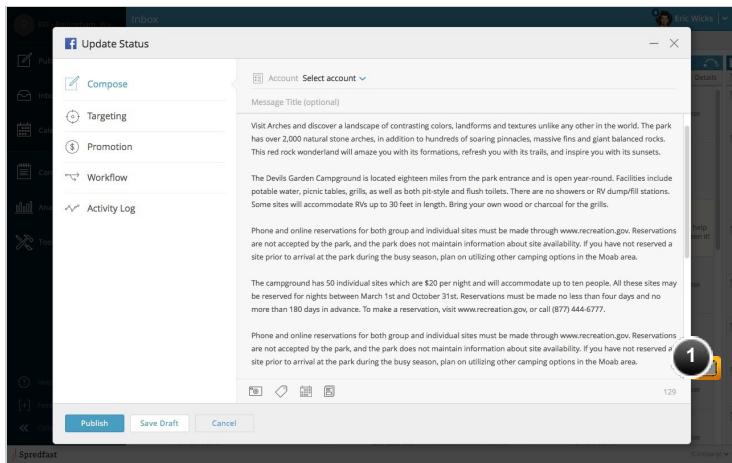

New icon shown By Jaladhi Pujara

1 No search results.

2 is this a global result of filtering to none, or is this only in quickpost? By Brian Carr

I think this could be the global result moving forward, but I've only seen it on quickpost at this point. (It's not, for example, implemented for the work that's already completed on the nav.) By Devin Kani

1 Showing scrollbar for a long message.

If I scroll down, do the accounts and title scroll out of view? If not, the scrollbar should end below them. By Noah Sloan

Brian also brought this up. Great point. I will put up a revised mock. By Jaladhi Pujara

Updated scrollbar position By Jaladhi Pujara

1 Left and right arrow on link preview navigate through photos.

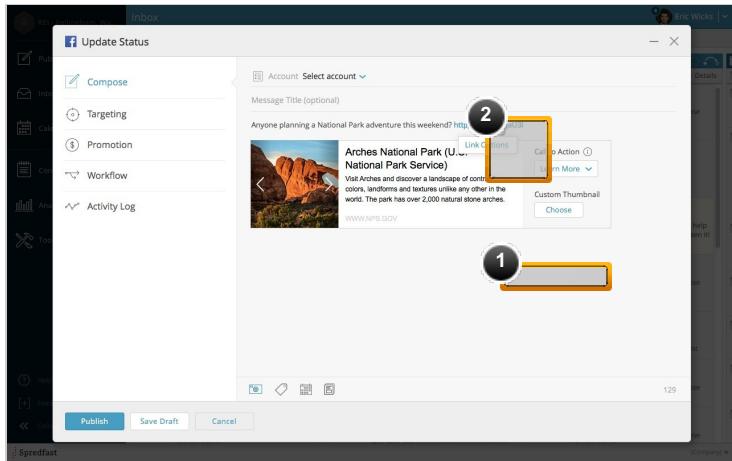

2 Call to Action dropdown will list the options that Facebook currently supports.

3 Out of scope for summer release. By Devin Kani removed preview link By Jaladhi Pujara

4 This shouldn't be a commit button. By Tommy Morgan

1 Additional options for link.

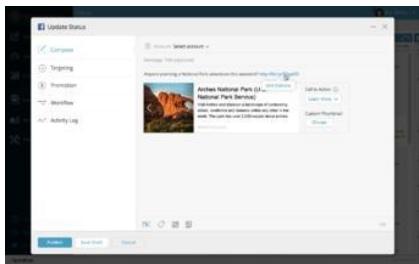

2 The actual link options would go in here, right? Or are they supposed to click Link Options to open a menu? By Noah Sloan

Next screen shows clicking on "Link Options" which triggers a menu. By Jaladhi Pujara

Ah, so is the idea that this shows on hover and the click opens a menu? By Noah Sloan

Exactly. By Jaladhi Pujara

Comments for 01g_Pubs_jp_20140422

Noah Sloan: We can dramatically improve the experience here (load much faster, have more token types) if we can do 1 thing: Don't add any UI elements that will move text from its natural position. e.g., the menu icon after the link (or making text bold, etc.)

Brian Carr: I think what you're asking is to not have the chevron after the link. Is that correct?

Jaladhi Pujara: @Noah: We are not planning to change anything about the link when this dropdown comes up. Is that what you mean?

Noah Sloan: Like Brian says, if we got rid of the chevron after the link and agreed not to do anything else that would change the text spacing or size, we can greatly simplify the editor, and then do things like highlight (and even link) hashtags.

Devin Kani: We don't really have another convention to show a dropdown (and just showing the link would be confusing - if I'm the user, I'd think it's really a link). I talked to Jaladhi and he's going to explore an alternative, but I think we're leaning towards keeping this the same.

Jaladhi Pujara: Alternative shown here. "Link Options" would be shown on hover. Clicking on it would show the dropdown menu.

Noah Sloan: Everyone should note that this WF is out of date. The menu should look like this: <https://notableapp.com/posts/851587>

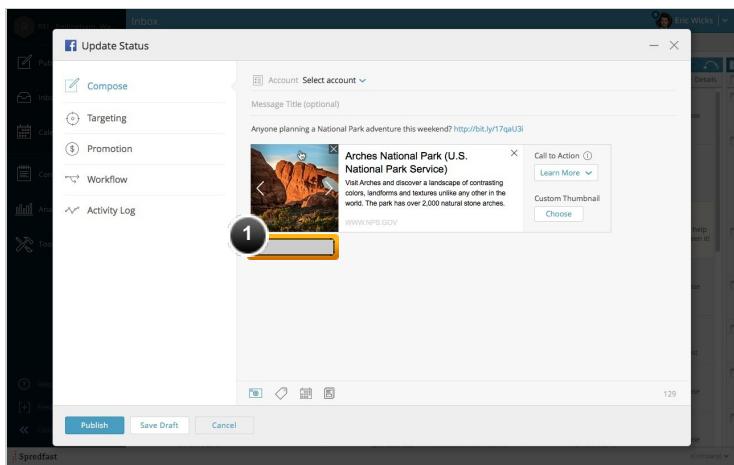

1 We will look at Edit Link tags and provide a design for it.

Comments for 01h_Pubs_jp_20140504

Jaladhi Pujara: We have changed the Link Preview design. Link will show a chevron next to it and clicking anywhere on the link will trigger the dropdown.

1 "X" button shows up on photo upon hover.

What does it do? By Tommy Morgan

Edit icon (pencil) shows next to the header upon hover. Clicking on it will show an editable text field.

What happens when the title doesn't wrap and there's not enough room between the title and the X to show the pencil? By Tommy Morgan

Also, right now this is defined specifically for use with a mouse, making it device-dependent. We need to think about how you could edit these fields using a keyboard only so we don't let accessibility get too far out of hand. By Tommy Morgan

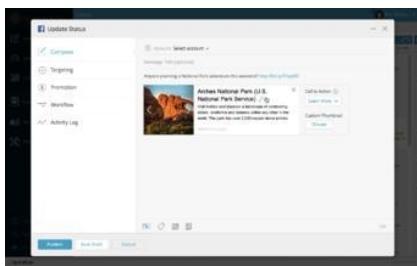

I think the pencil has to go to the left of the X regardless. We don't have position: absolute-at-the-end-of-the-line-unless-there-is-a-button-there By Noah Sloan

For accessibility, we could make the text a button and show the icon on focus. By Noah Sloan

I may have come up with an accessible solution too. I will discuss with you later as it a little more involved than I want to type here. By Tommy Morgan

new position for the edit icon shown By Jaladhi Pujara

Comments for 01j_Pubs_jp_20140422

Lucas Martinez: I only see one edit button. It looks like for editing the title only. Does the description have it's own pencil icon for editing?

Should the title and description length be limited to a number of characters?

What happens if the text is too long? Should the box adapt to the text?

What would happen to the perfect square photo preview?

Lucas Martinez: Are we supporting multiple links?

Jaladhi Pujara: Only one link preview even if there are multiple links.

Jaladhi Pujara: See the next screen for the second edit button for the description.

Title and description length should be the same that we support in the product today. Text should truncate after that with "...".

Can you clarify the question "What would happen to the perfect square photo preview?"?

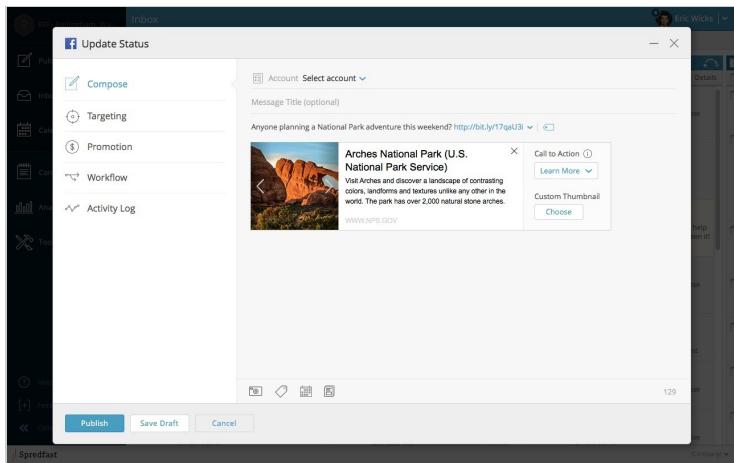

- 1 Edit icon (pencil) shows next to the body text upon hover. Clicking on it will show an editable text field.

1 Arrow button is disabled when there are no more photos to show.

Do we need to show it at all? By Tommy Morgan

The screenshot shows a user interface for managing link tags. At the top, it displays the URL 'www.spredfast.com'. Below this, there's a section titled 'Link Tags' containing a table. The table has two columns: 'Tag' and 'Value'. Several tags are listed with their corresponding values: 'cid' has '[channel]text' as its value; 'utm_content', 'utm_medium', and 'utm_source' also have values; while 'id', 'utm_campaign', and 'utm_medium' do not. At the bottom of the table are 'Save' and 'Cancel' buttons. A modal dialog is currently active over the 'cid' row, specifically over the 'Value' field. This dialog contains a search bar labeled 'Search Values' and a list of eight items labeled 'value 1' through 'value 8'. The item 'value 1' is checked, indicating it is the selected value for the 'cid' tag.

1 Existing scheduling functionality including reposts. A summary of schedule is shown in the "Actions Bar" next to the calendar icon.

2 Where can we see what it looks like when the camera icon is selected? By Noah Sloan

3 Will all the tabs have a summary like this? By Noah Sloan only scheduling has a summary like this By Jaladhi Pujara

4 If we remove scheduling, what does this look like? By Noah Sloan removing scheduling will clear scheduling and close this tab. By Jaladhi Pujara

5 We will need to show the minutes in 5 minute increments (e.g., 0, 5, 10, 15, 20). By Devin Kani

Comments for 01I_Pubs_jp_20140422

Jaladhi Pujara: We need to show the timezone.

Comments for 01n_Pubs_jp_20140424

Jaladhi Pujara: Existing content label functionality.

- 1 Compose summary shows the first line of the message, accounts, schedule (if applicable), and icons for link, attachment, and labels.
- 2 Existing functionality for organic audience.
- 3 This label is lighter gray than any other I have seen in 7.0. Is there a consistent rule behind this? By Tommy Morgan

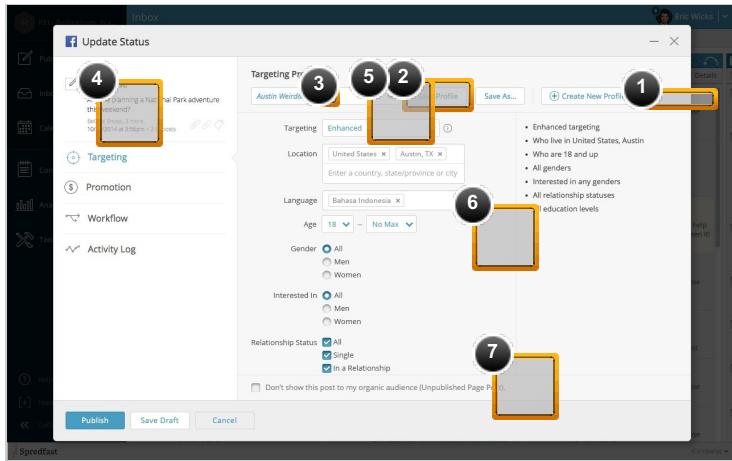

1 Summary on the right builds as options are selected on the left.

2 is this area is scrollable, and the summary to the right fixed? By Brian Carr

That is correct. I am assuming we would call that out in design notes. By Jaladhi Pujara

Probably way too late for this kind of feedback, but I find the scrollable div in the middle of a dialog to be awkward and unusual. Something like a submenu underneath 'Organic Audience' that let you tab through data sections might feel more natural, and we wouldn't have to screw around with scrollbars. By Marc Schriftman

- 1 When changes are made to an existing profile, "Save Profile" and "Save As..." buttons are shown.
- 2 There are two commit buttons (buttons that will create or update data) visible here: this button and the Save Draft button, but they are different colors in this mock. Which one is correct? By Tommy Morgan

The style guide currently defines that commit buttons within modals have a gallery background and plain buttons have a snow background, though I think those colors may be flipping based on a discussion with Amy today. By Tommy Morgan

- 3 Does the asterisk indicate that the profile has been modified? At first glance I thought it had something to do with being a required field since that's how we use the asterisk elsewhere. By Tommy Morgan

- 4 We need to stop producing wireframes with things highlighted that are not supposed to be. It causes confusion and wastes time. By Noah Sloan

That is a bit harsh! The only thing options here is the preview link. We needed to show where that would be placed when we build that in the future. By Jaladhi Pujara

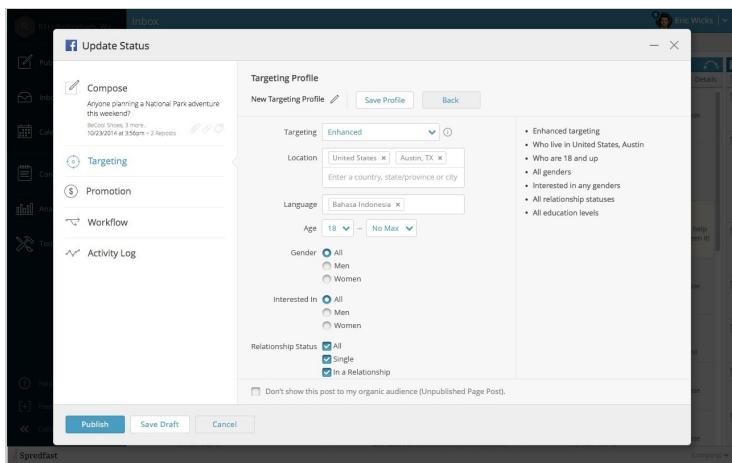

Sorry, I'm referring to the hashtag. By Noah Sloan

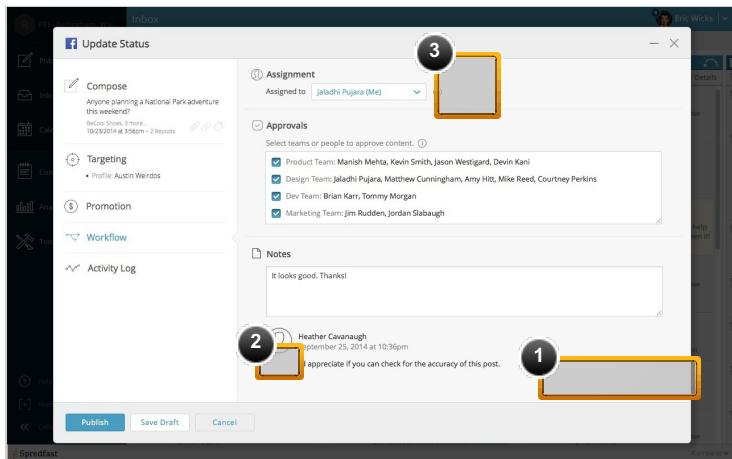

No worries. We weren't sure about hashtags until Devin clarified it. We will post a newer version of the mock next week :-) By Jaladhi Pujara

- 5 So will clicking Save Profile immediately save the profile? By Noah Sloan

- 6 If I select a profile, change it, and save the message without clicking "Save Profile" does the profile update? By Noah Sloan

- 7 Dark post looks like it is part of the profile but it is not.

2 Have we added user avatars?

Otherwise this is just going to be the same icon a bunch of times. By Noah Sloan

Avatars are part of the new admin work.
By Jaladhi Pujara

We do have user avatars, though I'm not sure what % of users have actually uploaded one. By Devin Kani

3 Impact of this on account credentials.

1 Button active when note content is added.

What does the button do? Today you can only add 1 note while the dialog is open. If I click add note, then cancel, what happens? By Noah Sloan

Aha! I wasn't aware of 1 note limitation. I was thinking of a scenario where someone is going back and forth with notes. By Jaladhi Pujara

Only one note per save of message currently. You can have many notes on a single message. I think the question is whether or not we needed the commit button. Currently, you just type in the field, and the note is added on save. In this case, if I leave text in here, but don't press "Add Note", is the note lost? By Brian Carr

I think we should have a separate commit button. Over time, we'll want folks who can leave notes but not save the message (view only to the actual message contents). This seems to be a step in the right direction. By Devin Kani

We should reorganize the flow of the dialog if we want separate commit buttons - the current design implies strongly that the note is part of the object, and users will think they've posted a note when they really haven't. By Marc Schriftman

2 This mock shows 2 primary buttons. This should be a non-primary commit button. By Tommy Morgan

The screenshot shows a software interface with a sidebar containing 'Compose', 'Targeting', 'Promotion', and 'Workflow' sections. The 'Workflow' section lists tasks: 'Assigned to: jaladhi Pujara (Me)', 'Approval: Product Team, 5 more...', and 'Note: Can you check this post for accuracy?'. Below this is an 'Activity Log' section with a table:

Date	User	Action
10/23/14 at 2:57pm	Devin Kari	Labels added: brand aware, holiday 2014, holiday sweeps
10/23/14 at 3:54pm	Heather Cavanaugh	Note added: Can you check this post for accuracy?
10/23/14 at 4:50pm	Devin Kari	Approved the post
10/23/14 at 4:51pm	Heather Cavanaugh	Published on Facebook
10/23/14 at 4:55pm	Devin Kari	Assigned to Heather Cavanaugh
10/23/14 at 4:57pm	Devin Kari	Saved as draft
10/23/14 at 4:58pm	Devin Kari	Scheduled post for 10/26/14 at 5:00pm

Annotations with numbers 1, 2, and 3 point to the 'Workflow' section, the 'Activity Log' table, and the header of the 'Activity Log' table respectively.

1 Workflow summary shows "Assigned to", "Approval", and "Note".

2 Activity log with Date, User, and Action column. I have tried to capture all the possible actions that can be shown here (ignore the sequence of events :))

What is the significance of the various colors for the icons? By Tommy Morgan

3 Is this sortable? Do we really want A-Z to be the sort icon for dates? By Noah Sloan

This is already in the style guide. By Jaladhi Pujara

1 Minimized state for the pubs dialog.
Clicking anywhere on the header will expand it.

Also, in the main nav, pubs flyout menu will only show "Facebook" in active state and other channels will be grayed out. Clicking on the Facebook icon in the main nav will also expand the pubs dialog.

What happens if they hit "twitter" instead?
By Brian Carr

Devin and I were thinking of disabling all other channel icons when pubs is open. By Jaladhi Pujara

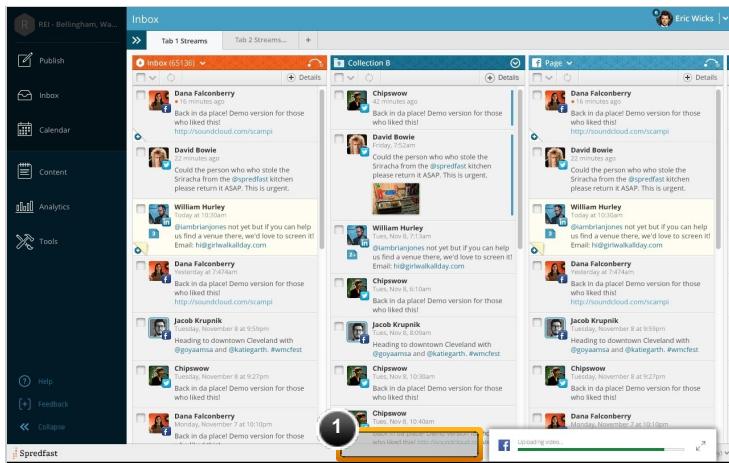

2 What does expanding look like? Is it animated? By Noah Sloan

Comments for 05a_Pubs_jp_20140422

Noah Sloan: Only 1 minimized message at a time?

Devin Kani: Noah - yes, one at a time. <https://jira.spredfast.com/browse/DEV-37002>

1 A progress bar is shown on the minimized pubs dialog when an upload process is going on.

IE9 doesn't support the HTML5 File API, and can't show progress without a flash hack. Can we use web standards here and have a "simplified" experience for IE9? By Tommy Morgan

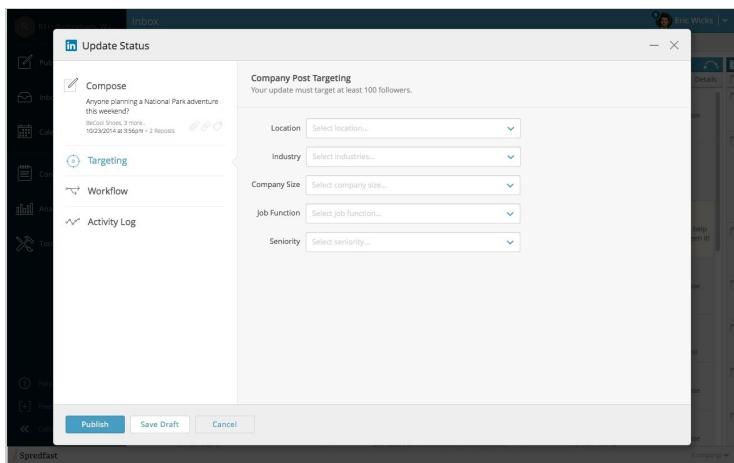

@Tommy, would the simplified experience be showing the user that it's uploading, then successful? By Devin Kani

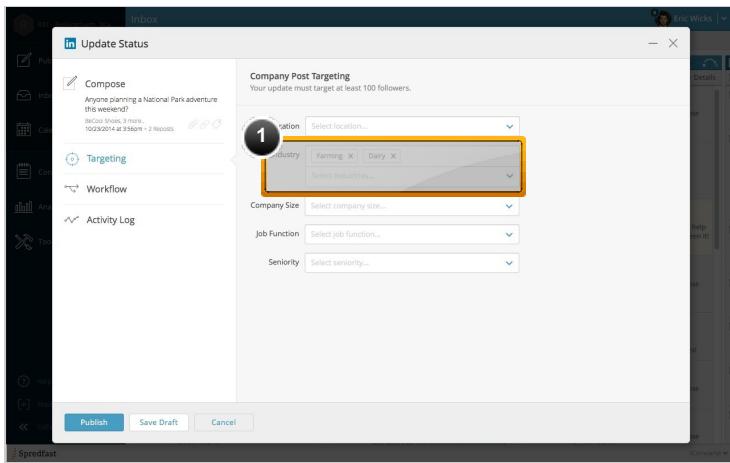

Yes By Tommy Morgan

Tommy, do you mean that an indeterminate progress bar would be okay but a determinate progress bar (showing percentage complete) would be problematic? By Jaladhi Pujara

We could do an indeterminate bar in IE9. By Tommy Morgan

Great. By the way, we are also looking in to potential conflict with the side panel if that is open. By Jaladhi Pujara

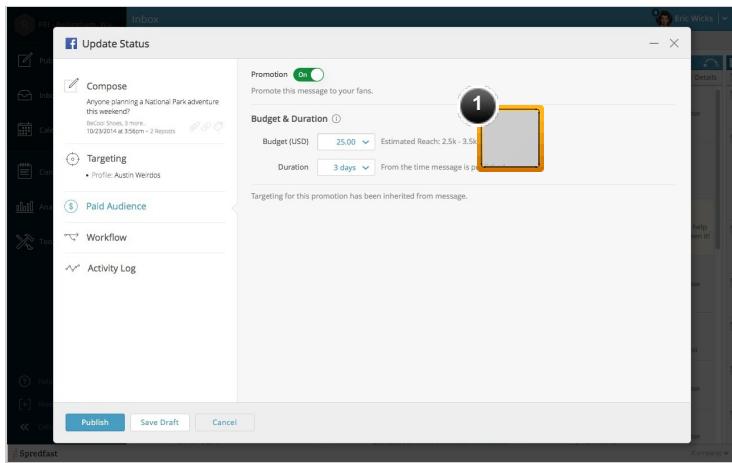

- 1 how do we indicate error states as you approach them, or after you've reached them. For example, you can only target 9 industries, or 25 "Geographies" By Brian Carr

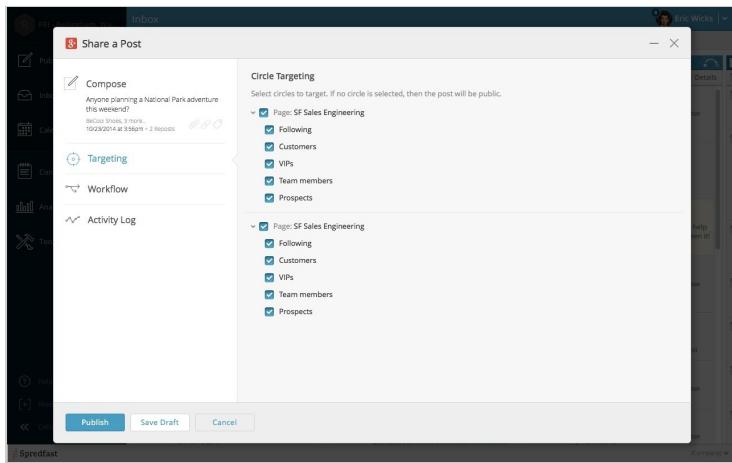

The screenshot displays three separate panels illustrating different interaction methods with a dropdown menu:

- Selecting from the dropdown: Shows a dropdown menu with a list of industry categories: Agriculture, Arts, Construction, Consumer Goods, Corporate, and Educational. The 'Agriculture' category is expanded, showing sub-options: Farming, Ranching, Dairy, and Fishery.
- Searching: Shows a search input field with the placeholder "Select Industries...". A search term "Ar" is entered, and the results show "Architecture & Planning", "Arts & Crafts" (which is highlighted in blue), "Arts & Music", and "Visual Arts".
- Panel with circled '1': Shows a dropdown menu with a list of industry categories: Agriculture, Arts, Construction, Consumer Goods, Corporate, and Educational. The 'Agriculture' category is expanded, showing sub-options: Farming, Ranching, Dairy, and Fishery. A circled '1' is placed over the 'Agriculture' category. Below the dropdown is a search bar containing "Farming X" and "Dairy X", with a "Select Industries..." dropdown arrow to its right.

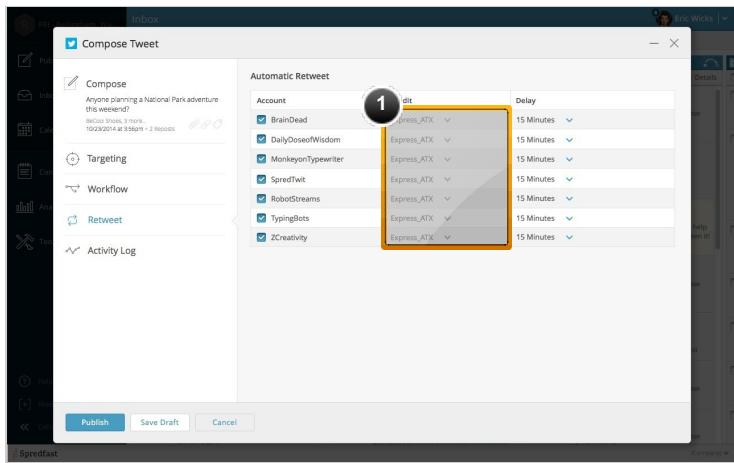

1 What happens for things, such as geographies where the top level, "Agriculture" in this case, can be selected? By Brian Carr

1 Budget is a combobox (can type in) but duration is a regular dropdown.

1 this needs to be a dropdown as well, as you can target any of the original accounts which posted the tweet By

Brian Carr

Thanks! Changed it to dropdown n. By Jaladhi Pujara

- 1 Disclaimer text shown below the Retweet option.

This looks like a separate tab from the above... By Noah Sloan

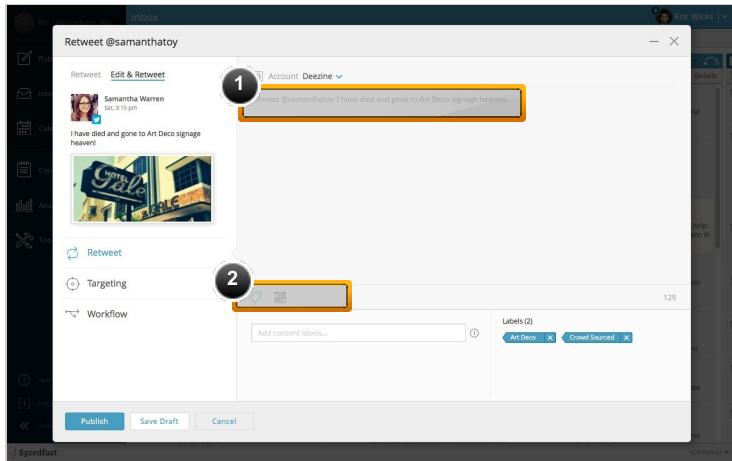

- 2 Tweet text is not editable.

- 3 Switching between two retweet styles (if enabled by admin). This switcher will not show if only one style is available.

- 4 Should we just remove the character counter? By Devin Kani

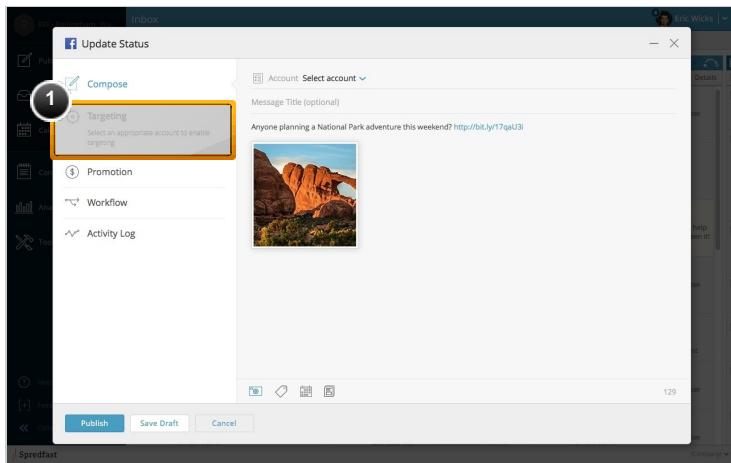

Remove for "Native Retweet" only? By Jaladhi Pujara

yes By Devin Kani

1 Text is editable.

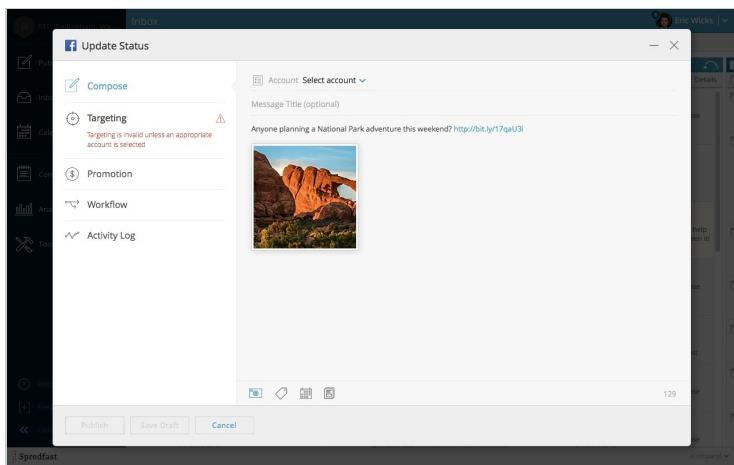

2 More options (camera and content center) shown for Editable Retweet.

@Brian, how difficult to customize this message by channel (e.g., on Facebook, must be a page; on Twitter, any account; on LinkedIn, a company with 100 followers). By Devin Kani

More difficult than is worth the moderate additional clarity, imo. By anonymous

Do we need to include Sina Weibo here? By Amy Hitt

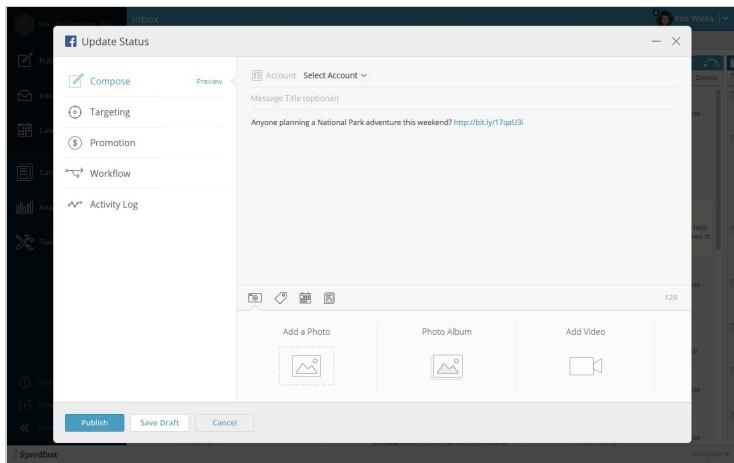

Yes. We should have icons ready for both Weibo (omit "Sina") and Pinterest. By Devin Kani

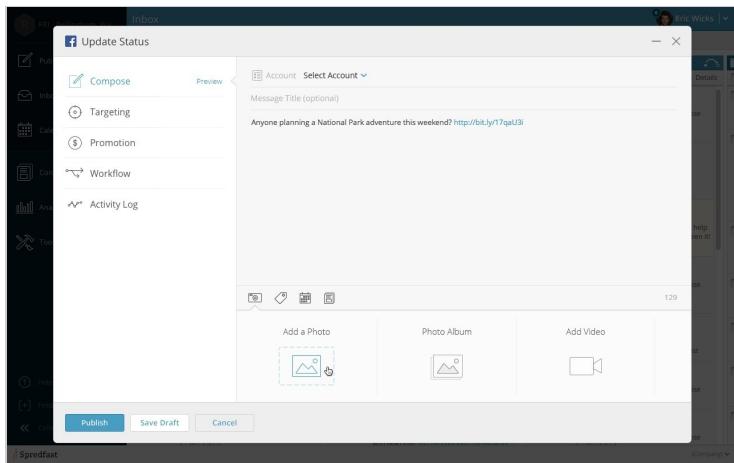

Weibo is already live in app -- at this point, we shouldn't focus on Pinterest, it's coming, but probably not from this team, and I don't want to confuse the issue. By Brian Carr

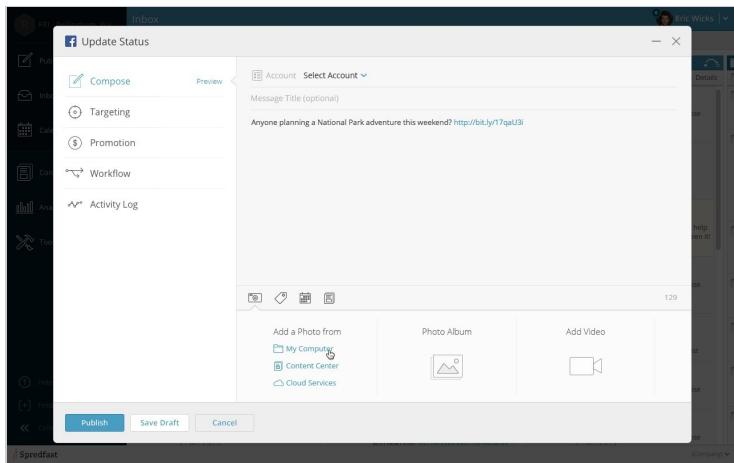

Makes sense, Brian. Just thought there might be some economy in creating all the icons at once. Amy could you add "Weibo" to this screen and provide the icon for it however you're providing the others? By Devin Kani

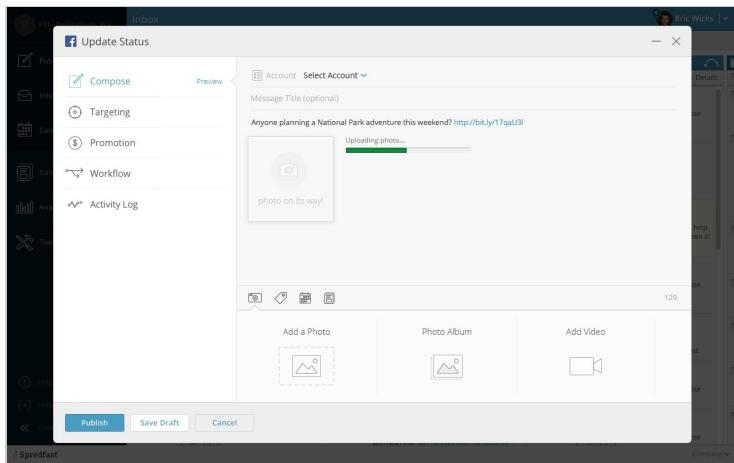

It's ok, we don't need the mock updated -- it goes after Google+, just like in the publishing fly-out, right? By Brian Carr

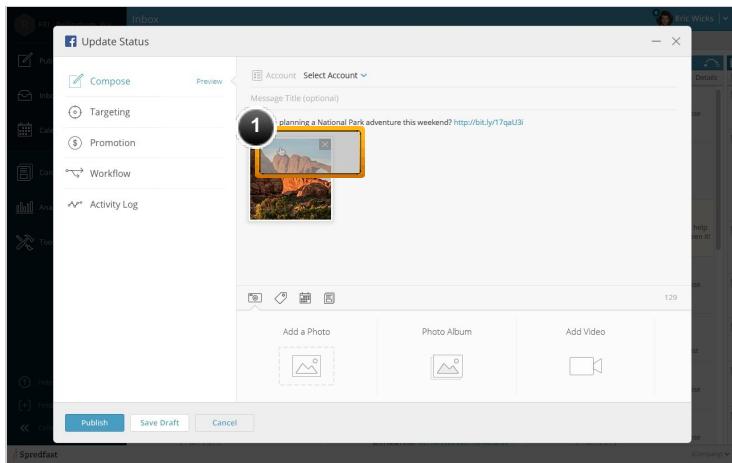

Yes. By Devin Kani

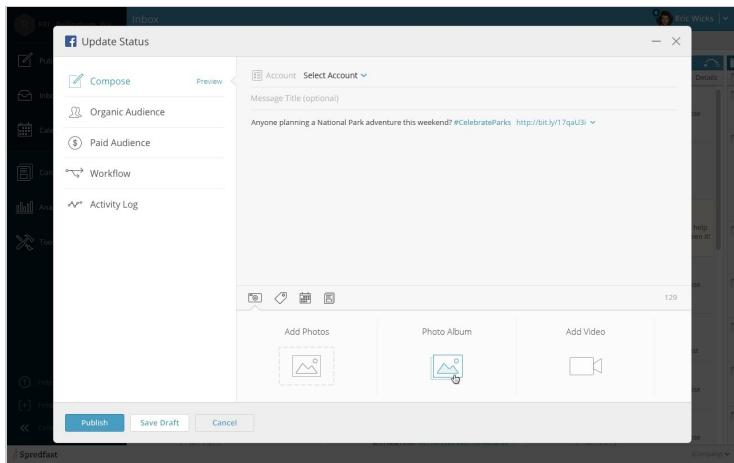

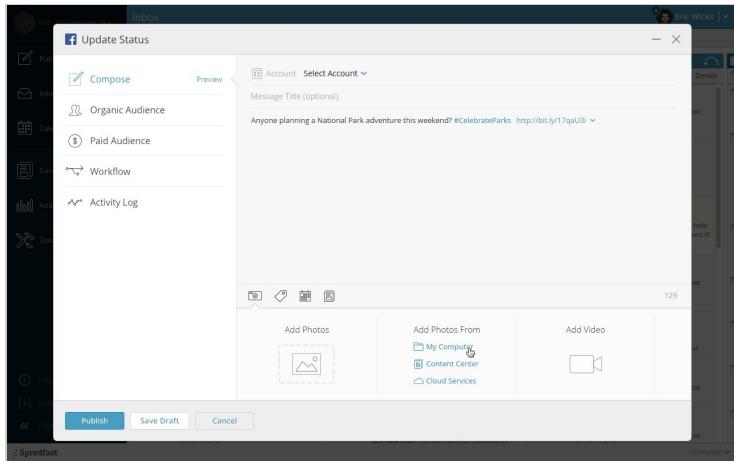

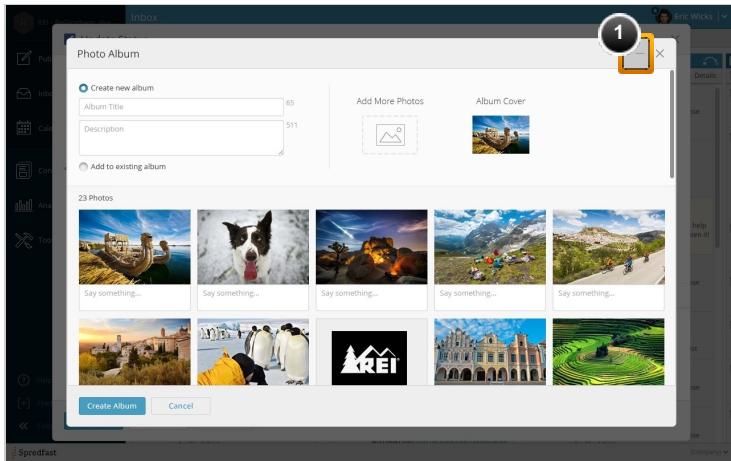

- 1 Hovering anywhere on the image will show the "X" Delete icon. Clicking this icon will trigger a delete warning modal.

what does it mean to minimize this dialog? what does it look like when minimized? By Brian Carr

1 is this a drag and drop zone or a button? By Brian Carr

Currently it is just a button, but I love the idea of a drag and drop area if that's even possible in this release. By Amy Hitt

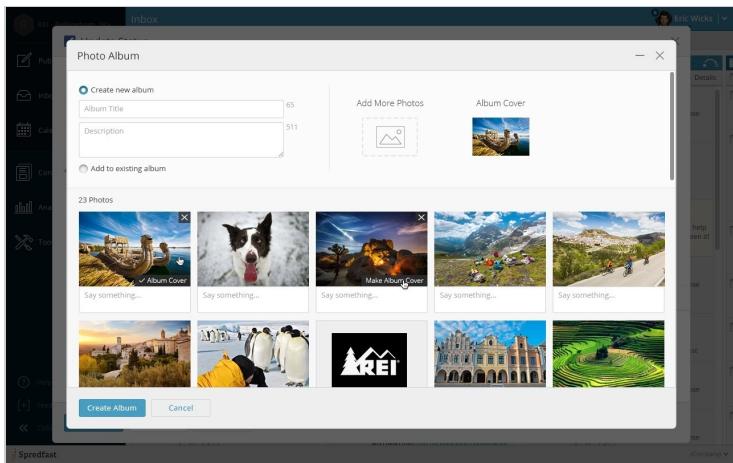

I think it's possible, i'll wait for noah to say. However, as a user of the system, it would not be clear to me that this is a button. By Brian Carr

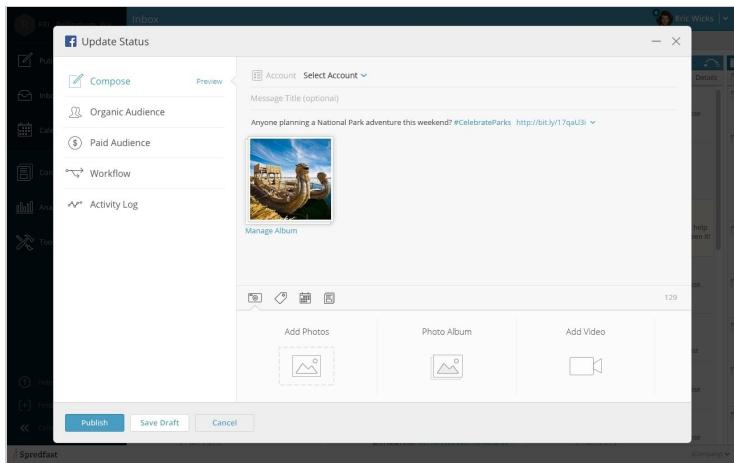

If drag and drop is not too much work (I think Noah mentioned that it wouldn't be that difficult) then we can turn the dialog in to a drop zone. By Jaladhi Pujara

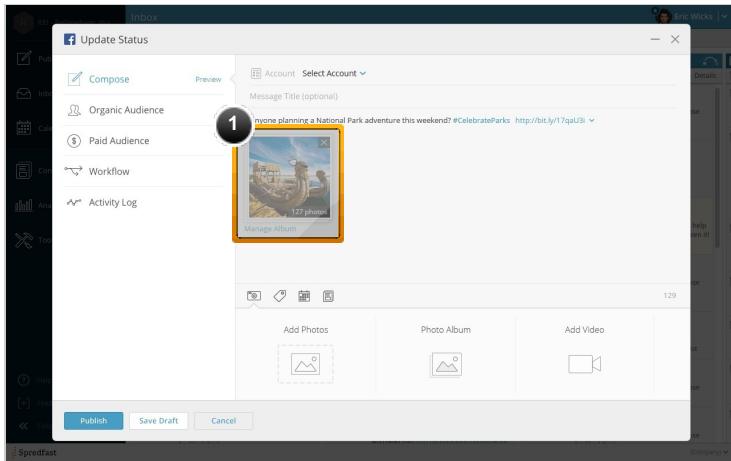

Also, this button is the exact same button on the previous screen that allows selecting between photo, album, or video. By Jaladhi Pujara different context though. As a competent computer user who knows the application forwards and backwards, and who has been looking at variations of the design for over a month, I still had to ask. But, if user testing has already proved this out, it's not a big deal. We can build it either way. By Brian Carr

I assumed because of the dashed border that it was a drag and drop zone. It looks very similar to the way Gmail looks on drag and drop. I like the flexibility of having both drag and drop and button clicks, but if there are any browser compatibility issues we would need at least the button. By Devin Kani

Love this. Just curious, should we make removing the photos a two-click action. Would hate to click that X by accident and remove 127 photos and their captions. By Devin Kani

Great point, in other areas of the product we show a delete modal with the option to confirm or cancel. I think we should explore some kind of escape route here as well. By Amy Hitt

Agreed. We should have a delete modal here too since this is a destructive action. By Jaladhi Pujara

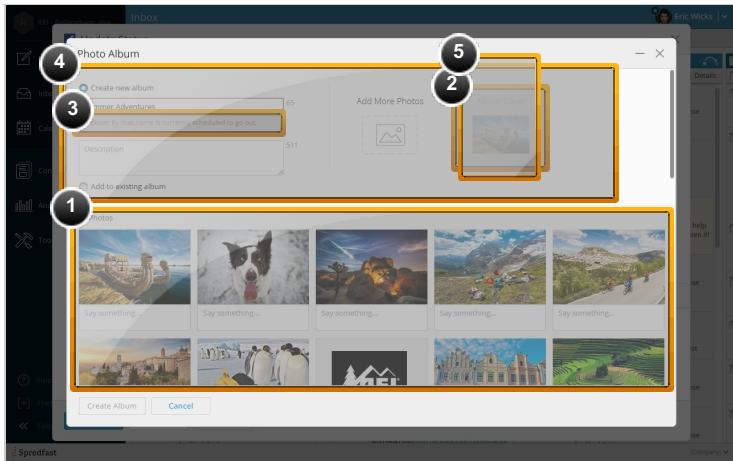

1 I think it might be more appropriate for the button to say "Done," since I presume clicking this doesn't create the album - I think it would take the user back to the compose pane. By Devin Kani

2 this looks pretty cool, but do we think our customers will want to be able to see the whole photo they're going to post? is there a way to do that? By Brian Carr

- 1 When I was onsite with customers last week, one of them asked me if they could re-arrange the photos. Turns out, the order matters because brands are trying to tell a story with the photos as users click through them. Could we explore that use case? By Devin Kani

Hi Devin, Amy and I talked about this. We could allow drag and drop to reorder. We can also put a dropdown for changing the sort order. However, there is already a workaround which is to use your system file picker dialog to reorder images and then our album dialog shows them in the same order. By Jaladhi Pujara

I completely agree! Jaladhi and I discussed this feature and figured it would be too expensive so didn't follow through on the design for it. By Amy Hitt

Drag and drop may not be as expensive as you think. By Noah Sloan

- 2 I really like that this is something that is shown to the user By Devin Kani

Notable posted my comment before I was ready... was going to say I like that it's called out. But how does a user specify a photo as the cover? By Devin Kani

it is an action on hover on the photos shown below By Jaladhi Pujara

I included a mock showing the hover state for an image with the option to "Make Album Cover" and one that is already selected as the cover. I had an info icon next to the "Album Cover" text here, but we thought hovering over an image to change cover would be intuitive enough that we didn't need it. Maybe we should put the info icon back to be clear? By Amy Hitt

Thanks Amy. Just hadn't seen the other mock. Like you, I think it's probably clear enough. By Devin Kani

- 3 I'd also like to point out that we will add photos to the album if it already exists (instead of creating a new album), because that's the desired behavior. By Devin Kani

- 4 According to Brian, if we choose an existing album, we can't choose a new album cover. We'll need to show that state (show thumbnail of existing cover and explain that it can't be changed? maybe that warrants an info icon...). By Devin Kani

We can remove or show a disabled state for the "Make Album Cover" on hover, but I agree it might not be clear enough and we could use an info icon here. By Amy Hitt

How about showing an instruction text around Album Cover that says something like "Album cover cannot be changed for an existing album."? By Jaladhi Pujara

- 5 how do we set the cover photo in the new design? By Brian Carr

Hover over one of the thumbnails to see "Make Album Cover" option. Design is located here:
